TESTIMONIALS

"What I thought was going to be practical lessons on starting a business ended up being very practical lessons on how to get yourself ready to release what your heart and soul already knew you had in you... to gain clarity as to why and who you want to give to, to learn how to fight resistance that always comes at us all, to recognise the roadblocks we (often subconsciously) put in our own way. When I say foundational studies... I mean the core essential things you need to get clear before getting a business started."

"This course came to me in a time I needed it most and has been so life changing I can't even use words to explain...."

"Fleur's skills apply to all. Men, women - all ages. She provides neutral territory of self discovery.

No one loses. No one wins, but don't think for a moment I escaped facing my own excuses and blaming others.

Her loving support always left me confident, freer and lighter."

ABOUT FLEUR

Fleur Porter is a Purpose Coach based in Geraldton, Western Australia.

She grew up on a mixed enterprise property in the northern wheatbelt, right on the edge of pastoral country, and experienced the challenges of drought, family dynamics and isolation first hand on her family farm, along with the joys of farm-life, freedom and the bush.

After studying science at University and roles with the Department of Agriculture in WA she returned to the family farm. She ran a successful, national award winning, nature-based farm tourism business for eight years before becoming a Rural Financial Counsellor in 2008 (following two back to back extremely dry seasons in WA) and worked with farmers and pastoralists in financial stress. Fleur experienced the resilience of rural people and the heartbreak of loss in this job and created her own life coaching business in 2010 specialising in purpose as a pathway to facilitate change.

Fleur has a Bachelor of Applied Science from JCU in North Queensland, is a qualified NLP Practitioner, and has a Diploma of Coaching and a Diploma of Community Services (Financial Counselling).

Fleur specialises with regional, rural and remote people (in particular women on farms and stations and living in rural communities) and finding ways to combat isolation, anxiety and depression by enabling them to turn their energy into a powerful force for good in the world. She believes that women in rural communities who are connected, know how to nurture and care for themselves, and have solid foundations that allow them to move beyond survival mode, are the first to notice when anyone in their community is not okay. And when they have purpose and connection to others, can and will do great things – including having solid relationships and teamwork with their men, and everyone in their communities.

Fleur runs intensive group programs (mainly for women) and coaches individuals 1:1 (mainly for men), is married to her favourite Agronomist and is mother and step mother to six children.

IN FLEUR'S WORDS

"I believe that we all have magic in us. And there is something special in that gift that the world needs. In combination with other people and their gifts. My purpose is to inspire others to do what inspires them, and by default change the world. Like a ripple that goes out because I don't know everybody yet, but I can know some and they will inspire those who know them. And that's why I show up every day. My story is filled with contradictions. About being a dreamer and a worker. A scientist and a magician. A talker and a writer. A mother and a worker. A romantic and a realist. The light and the shadow. Real life. I think the best kind of life coaches and relationship coaches and business coaches coach from real life experience. And often the best ones are the ones who didn't get it right first time, but paved a pathway through the convoluted mash up of working out how to do it (or alternatively, how not to do it first, and then how to do it)."
